READ—

The Annual Municipal Administration Reports and Returns for the year 1924-25.

DURING the year general elections were held in 41 municipalities, and 270 out of the 418 seats were contested, the average number of candidates per seat contested being 4. The percentage of voters polled varied from 3.97 in Kamalia to 92.3 in Kasur, while the average was 55.17. The elections are reported generally to have aroused keen interest and, except in the Ambala division, charges of corruption were few. In Amritsar for the 10 Muslim, 9 non-Muslim and 4 Sikh seats 62, 42 and 42 candidates, respectively, were nominated, but the Muslim and Sikh candidates eventually submitted to the arbitration of a single individual and of a committee, respectively: the Commissioner of Lahore characterises this as a new method of election foreshadowing the caucus system. In Rawalpindi two elections were decided by the candidates casting lots just before the time fixed for polling. Apart from the desirability of such methods of settling elections from the constitutional point of view, as to which opinions may differ, it is certain that they involve a great waste of the time of officials responsible for the conduct of elections, and steps are being taken to revise the rules in respect of withdrawals from candidature and the making of deposits by candidates on nomination, so as to bring them into line with the election rules of the provincial and central legislatures.

2. The numbers of meetings held were on the whole satisfactory, but it is disquieting to find that the percentage of meetings that proved abortive for want of a quorum remains so high. In this respect the record was made by the Bhiwani committee with 48 abortive meetings out of a total of 62, due to the fact that many of the members were absent from the town for months at a time on private business. The attendance of members was generally good, but there were notable exceptions, among which the committees of Hissar and Ferozepore may particularly be mentioned, and Government would invite the attention of local officers to the desirability of keeping in such cases a close watch on the attendance of members with a view to the prompt removal of those who for no good reason fail to perform the duties they owe to their constituents. The disposal of business by committees is reported to be generally satisfactory, but difficulties appear to have been experienced in a number of places over securing the attendance of members at meetings of sub-committees, and Government have reason for believing that the disposal of business by many committees is far from satisfactory, and that even if arrears of business are not allowed to accumulate, this result is only avoided by rushing often important matters through without proper consideration after devoting quite unnecessary time to matters of perhaps comparatively trivial importance. Prompt disposal of business is particularly necessary in the case of municipal administration, more especially in connection with building applications, and Government would impress upon the presidents of all committees the necessity of putting the interests of the administration entrusted to their charge above all other considerations. In some municipalities it is reported that the powers of the committees to control building operations remain almost entirely unexercised owing to the delays which are suffered to occur, and this may amount to very serious dereliction of duty. Of one important committee it is reported that its proceedings resemble those of a debating club rather than those of an administrative body, and one result is seen in the failure of this committee to pay its bills in spite of having ample funds at its disposal.

3. As to the general attitude of members towards their responsibilities the reports indicate no change. Some committees work well, others work well according to their lights but are hampered by lack of knowledge and experience. In some committees communal tension tends to distort the perspective of members and the administration suffers in consequence; in others where communal tension is happily absent, personal rivalries are believed to produce the same result. In some cases the removal of official control from within has stimulated the interest of non-officials and an improvement in the administration is perceptible; in others the removal of the official president has meant the removal of a valuable check on personal or communal rivalries, to the prejudice of their efficiency. Where the right type of man is available and is willing to spare the time and energy required of a member of a local body, the local administration functions with moderate success : where such men are not available or are unwilling to play their part in local affairs, the administration effects nothing, but the remedy is in the hands of the voters, and when the progress of education creates an electorate which will insist on a reasonably efficient standard of local administration, greater improvement can be expected. Signs are, happily, not wanting that such an electorate is coming into existence, and the Punjab Government (Ministry of Education) are not without hope that it will before long make itself felt in the administration of local affairs.

4. The total revenues of municipal committees amounted to Rs. 1,38·8 lakhs as compared with Rs. 1,24·3 lakhs in the previous year, the increase being accounted for chiefly by an increase of about Rs. 11 lakhs in the amount of Government grants. Taxes of all sorts brought in Rs. 76·3 lakhs as compared with Rs. 73·2 lakhs in 1923-24, the principal variations being an increase of Rs. 4 lakhs from terminal tax and a decrease of Rs. 1·5 lakhs from octroi. Terminal tax was substituted for octroi in Ambala, Pathankot and, at the end of year, Lahore, but the only other changes of taxation during the year were the imposition of a toll on animals and vehicles entering municipal limits at Rawalpindi, and of a scavenging tax in Simla. The average incidence of taxation per head of the population was Rs. 4-4-0, the incidence varying from 9 annas 6 pies per head in Narowal to Rs. 18-1 1 in Simla. In Lahore the incidence was Rs. 4-6-9 only, while in Amritsar it amounted to Rs. 7-0-5, a higher rate than in any other municipality in the plains. Apart from taxation the chief sources of revenue were Government contributions Rs. 20 lakhs ; miscellaneous, Rs. 8·2 lakhs ; rents, Rs. 7 lakhs ; sale proceeds of lands and produce of lands, Rs. 5 lakhs ; sale of water, Rs. 4·9 lakhs ; sale of electric energy, Rs. 4·5 lakhs ; conservancy receipts, Rs. 3 lakhs ; fees of all sorts, Rs. 1·3 lakhs and fairs, Rs. 1·2 lakhs ; capital expenditure was met to the extent of Rs. 15·3 lakhs by loans and to the extent of Rs. 9 lakhs by sale of investments.

5. The total expenditure excluding investments, repayment of loans and deposits and advances amounted to Rs. 1,25·4 lakhs, as compared with Rs. 1,39·3 lakhs in the previous year. The decrease was due chiefly to the smaller capital expenditure on water-supply schemes, which amounted to Rs. 11·3 lakhs as compared with Rs. 21·9 lakhs in the previous year, the only other notable decrease being in the expenditure on lighting which was Rs. 3 lakhs less than in 1923-24. The expenditure on education was about the same as in the previous year, at Rs. 15 lakhs, but the expenditure on hospitals and dispensaries increased by Re. 1 lakh to Rs. 11·8 lakhs. The extra expenditure on hospitals and dispensaries was, however, met by an increase in the amount of Government grants and contributions from other local bodies. The amount spent on roads, Rs. 8 lakhs, was over a lakh less than in the previous year and was clearly inadequate : complaints are made on this score in several of the reports and the Punjab Government (Ministry of Education) would impress upon all committees the necessity of paying particular attention to this matter : for unless roads and streets are kept in proper repair not only do the citizens suffer great inconvenience, but the task of keeping roads and streets in a sanitary condition is made very much more difficult, while roadside drains are also liable to much greater damage if the road surface gets broken up. The expenditure on conservancy amounted to nearly Rs. 15·5 lakhs ; this represents a very considerable proportion of the total expenditure and it is therefore essential that it should be carefully watched. Most of the expenditure under this head is for establishments of sweepers, bhishties, etc., and any slackness in the supervision of these establishments involves a great waste of money. Further advance was made during the year in the provision of drainage schemes and a capital expenditure of Rs. 4·6 lakhs was incurred : the recurring expenditure under this head, on the other hand, fell from over Rs. 2 lakhs to Rs. 1,87,000 and this can not be regarded as satisfactory. It has in fact been brought to the notice of Government in a considerable number of cases that expensive drainage and water supply schemes are not being properly maintained : this in most cases is believed to be due to the failure of committees to employ properly qualified staffs to look after these undertakings, a penny wise pound foolish policy which may involve a great waste of public money.

6. There was but little activity during the year in respect of the making of new bye-laws but this is perhaps not to be regretted until the attitude of committees towards the enforcement of bye-laws is strengthened. This is well illustrated in the case of those committees which have adopted the model bye-laws with regard to standard weights and measures : by the end of the year these bye-laws had been adopted by the committees but enquiries made by the Co-operative Department, which has interested itself in this attempt to secure fairer dealings, showed that practically no attempt of any sort has yet been made to enforce the bye-laws and that in the majority of cases the committees had not even themselves obtained sets of standard weights and measures. The position appears to be very similar in respect of other bye-laws also, and the Medical Officer of Health of one committee complains that though these are excellent bye-laws to control the erection of buildings and all building applications are dealt with strictly in accordance with them, no effort is made to see that the buildings actually constructed are in accordance with the sanctioned plans and the result is simply a waste of time of every one concerned. In this connection it is not only honest and efficient inspecting staffs that are required : it is just as important that committees should without fear or favour enforce the penalties provided for breaches of bye-laws when such breaches are reported to them.

7. A number of serious fires occurred during the year and the Punjab Government (Ministry of Education) wish to take this opportunity of acknowledging the services of the local Sewa Samities on these occasions, especially in Amritsar and Rawalpindi. The expenditure of all the committees in the province on fire protection amounted to only Rs. 63,000 and there is thus ample scope for these volunteer organisations until committees are able and willing to make much greater provision for this service.

8. The work done by many non-official presidents, vice-presidents and members is commended in the reports : many of these gentlemen have for many years devoted themselves to municipal administration with great public spirit and the Punjab Government (Ministry of Education) desire to endorse the commendation which has been bestowed on all : of gentlemen whose names have newly been brought to their notice may be mentioned :—

Maulvi Abdul Ghani, President of the Karnal committee ; Sheikh Rahmat Ilahi, Vice-president of the Rupar committee, Lala Lachman Das, Member of the Dalhousie committee ; Chaudhri Mohammad Amin, of the Siálkot committee ; Mr. Din Mohammad and Sardar Sahib Sardar Sukha Singh of the Gujranwála committee ; Khan Sahib Sardar Shah Baz Khan, of the Kasur committee ; Lala Lurinda Ram, Vice-president of the Campbellpur committee ; Sardar Fatch Khan, President of the Sahiwal committee ; Sheikh Fazl Haq, of the Bhera Committee ; Sardar Sahib Sardar Kishan Singh, Vice-president of the Lyallpur committee ; Mian Mohammad Afzal, President of the Dera Gházi Khan committee ; Rai Sahib Lala Piyara Lal, President of the Muzaffargarh committee.
